Definitions of contributions

All contributions are preserved.

Employer Contributions are contributions made by the employer which are more than the minimum Superannuation Guarantee Contributions (see below).

Personal Deducted Contributions are contributions made by employees that will be claimed as a tax deduction. Most employees don't qualify to claim a tax deduction for their own contributions as they must get 90% of their income from self-employment.

Personal Undeducted Contributions are contributions made by employees, and won't be claimed as a tax deduction by the employee.

Salary Sacrifice Contributions are contributions made by the employer from an employee's pre-tax salary. The employee sacrifices part of their salary and their employer pays an equivalent amount as a superannuation contribution. Although this type of contribution is considered to be an employer contribution, it belongs to the employee.

Superannuation Guarantee Contributions are the minimum contributions payable by employers. For the latest superannuation guarantee rate, please refer to the www.ato.gov.au. Superannuation paid under an Industrial Award or Agreement is also classified as this type of contribution.

Spouse Contributions are contributions made by a legally married or defacto spouse living with the member on a genuine domestic basis. These contributions won't be claimed as a tax deduction by the member or the spouse making the contribution.
